Fix That Shirt, Paris initiated a project to make Upcycled Mask in collaboration with an NGO by the name "Mahashakti Seva Kendra (MSK)" in Bhopal titled as,"Make masks, Save Lives" for India. In January when the Pandemic hit the country and people were suffering with the non-availability of masks this was one great opportunity to teach the community to make mask recycling, upcycling and keeping Sustainability in mind.

In these dark and uncertain times, it has become increasingly obvious to us that each one of us needs to step up for those around us. If there is one thing that this global pandemic has made abundantly clear, it is that none of us can live for just ourselves.

With that thought, I collaborated with a few Madhubani artisans from Bihar and made unique designer masks with intricate motifs. I provided them with Khadi Cloth Material and they processed it further into a mask and painted motifs over it.

All the profits were directly sent to them along with a ₹ 10 contribution per order from my pocket side.

It also struck me that the security personnel in our society were also always on duty. They safeguard us at a personal cost. To help them with essentials, I along with RWA's support got 2 earthen pots installed at the main gate to provide necessary & refreshing cold water.

I was even a part of 'Make Masks, Save Lives', an initiative by Fix That Shirt, Paris, during which I stitched a few masks by myself and donated it to an NGO.

We all get to know the actual importance of money in our lives when we get to that age / experience of owning and also by that time the importance of everyone else around us like our family, friends, constitution, government, their policies and so on. We are glad to have them in our lives. We took a small step to do something for the corona warriors. We collected some amount 5, 10, 50 rupees on a daily basis and after 4 months we have saved enough to help them by distributing face masks, face shields, gloves, and immunity booster powder to the police man, roadside workers, railway officers working out and risking their life for our safety. Do at least what you can. realise and accept your responsibilities and have their back means you to hold them.
