Background - The National Institute of Fashion Technology is a leader in fashion education with the ability to integrate knowledge, traditional arts, contemporary thought, academic freedom, innovations in design and technology and creative thinking to continuously upgrade its curriculum to address the changing needs of the industry. Its history of more than three decades at the pinnacle of fashion education stands as a testimony to its focus on core values where academic excellence has been nurtured. The institute has stood as a beacon of industry-academia engagement and a key enabler in developing competent professionals.

NIFT has adopted a format of Majors, Deepening Specializations, Interdisciplinary Minors and General Electives. Interdisciplinary Minors provide individualized pathways that permit students to acquire interdisciplinary skill sets that complement major area of study or enable students to explore an unrelated area of intellectual interest.

General Electives aid in enhancing overall development of the personality, knowledge and understanding of the student in specific areas. A General Elective is a set of courses that allow co-curricular growth of the students and complement the courses being undertaken within different specializations. The General Electives have been categorized as Mandatory and Optional Courses, to ensure that essential skill sets for graduating students are acquired during the course of the programme. Through the General Elective, the student will be exposed to a hands-on, applied format of inquiry, which would help the student appreciate the core principles of the particular branch of study and correlate that understanding with the student's environment and work.

All the General Electives are credited courses, with what is desired is a selective sampling that helps give the student an understanding of the basic principles and framework at play, as well as piquing of the student's curiosity and appreciation of the aesthetic and philosophical underpinnings of the specific course. It is also desired that these are done by involving learning tools, materials and institutions (like museums, art galleries, archives, natural parks etc) that are locally accessible. The intent is to challenge the student's perspective and understanding and expand the frontiers of his/her mind, and not just cram it with information.
